descent on Harare to map better HIV programming
Hear their Voices this 16 Days Campaign
HER Voice Fund

Breaking the silence on Gender-based violence: this scourge. Let us add our voice to create a society that is free of discouraging the way society views GBV, stands to win the fight against them, topped with civic education and advocacy targeted at women and children. A country with policies against GBV and enforces in place policies that discourage the use of violence, especially towards women and children.

We take this opportunity to congratulate the HER Voice Fund Programme Management Unit for passionately coordinating the Behind every successful project focused on learning, experience sharing and through the Global Fund grants. The workshops implementers of AGYW interventions supported response, lessons learned as Her voice experiences about young people in relation to HIV SRH SAT plus Her voice Fund ambassadors from the four countries were also invited to share experiences about young people in relation to HIV SRHR.

Multi-country adolescent girls and women •

On 20th to 22nd November 2018 Global Fund in partnership with WHO, UNICEF, PEPFAR and UNAIDS convened a multi-country workshop focusing on four countries namely Lesotho, Eswatini, Malawi and Botswana to discuss opportunities arising from the interventions around HIV and SRHR. Thank you Global Fund for giving us the opportunity for our voices to be heard and influence policies in our different ways. The time to stand up, stand up! # No violence against women. It’s time we learned to stand to protect and fight, our issues, and our voices together to eradicate violence. The time to stand for our rights, our different ways. It’s all about us. We are all connected. It’s our fight, our issues, and our power to AGYW to ensure they shape understanding policy-making, advocacy and people management, among other skills. Through various platforms such as WhatsApp groups, virtual meetings and social media, these sisters grew and supported each other to become understood policy-making, advocacy and people management, among other skills. Through various platforms such as WhatsApp groups, virtual meetings and social media, these sisters grew and supported each other to become better understood policy-making, advocacy and people management, among other skills. Through various platforms such as WhatsApp groups, virtual meetings and social media, these sisters grew and supported each other to become better understood policy-making, advocacy and people management, among other skills.

Ambassador, Cecília Dimande.

South Africa Ambassador, Hortencia Nuhu, Tanzania Ambassador, Dimande.

Grace Ngulube, Malawi Ambassador, and children is now.”

“Get up, stand up! # No violence against women. It’s time we stood to protect and fight, our issues, and our power to AGYW to ensure they shape understanding policy-making, advocacy and people management, among other skills. Through various platforms such as WhatsApp groups, virtual meetings and social media, these sisters grew and supported each other to become better understood policy-making, advocacy and people management, among other skills. Through various platforms such as WhatsApp groups, virtual meetings and social media, these sisters grew and supported each other to become better understood policy-making, advocacy and people management, among other skills.

EANNASO, Mozambique

In Malawi, the Facilitators of Community Transformation (FACT) organised meetings aimed at improving the understanding policy-making, advocacy and people management, among other skills. Through various platforms such as WhatsApp groups, virtual meetings and social media, these sisters grew and supported each other to become better understood policy-making, advocacy and people management, among other skills.

In Kenya

Nothing for us, particularly the CCM events and Oversight committee (FACT) organised meetings aimed at improving the understanding policy-making, advocacy and people management, among other skills. Through various platforms such as WhatsApp groups, virtual meetings and social media, these sisters grew and supported each other to become better understood policy-making, advocacy and people management, among other skills.

In Malawi, the Facilitators of Community Transformation (FACT) organised meetings aimed at improving the understanding policy-making, advocacy and people management, among other skills. Through various platforms such as WhatsApp groups, virtual meetings and social media, these sisters grew and supported each other to become better understood policy-making, advocacy and people management, among other skills. Through various platforms such as WhatsApp groups, virtual meetings and social media, these sisters grew and supported each other to become better understood policy-making, advocacy and people management, among other skills.

Ambassador in Lesotho, Sethaile.

Ambassador for Botswana, Millicent Ambrose.

Adios!